Guide to the EU Water Policy: Principles, Main Elements, Key Players

16th June 2014 , Brussels, Belgium

By Dr. Helmut Blöch

Introduction

Waters do not respect political or administrative boundaries, neither on pollution nor on floods. Based on these facts, planning and decisions in water management are increasingly shaped by EU legislation and initiatives, as well as river basin conventions under international law.

A grasp of legal basis, context and decision-taking mechanisms are thus of increasing importance for planners and decision makers at local, regional and national level in the private and public sector.

The EU Water Policy Seminar by EWA will present

- an overview of EU Institutions, their interaction and decision-making processes, from the European Parliament and the Commission to the Court of Justice;
- a survey “Who is who in water” in the EU, in all water-related policy areas, from environment to agriculture, from industry to internal market and EU enlargement,
- possibilities, paths and legal rights for access to information and documents, citizens’ initiatives;
- the core elements of legislation and funding instruments shaping the water environment within the EU, as well as conventions under international law.

The seminar aims at planners and decision makers at local, regional and national level, in municipalities and regional authorities and agencies, in branches of the water industry as well as in non-governmental organisations and stakeholder bodies.
