2022 Bathing Water Quality Report just published

The Bathing Water Directive is one of the earliest (first Directive 1976) and of the most successful elements of EU water legislation (both in terms of public perception and of results delivered).

3 June 2022 saw publication by the European Environment Agency and the European Commission of the 2022 report, covering the 2021 bathing season with 21,859 bathing waters across Europe.

EWA NEWS provides you the key findings as well as links to an interactive map on bathing water quality across Europe and to individual country reports providing detailed information not least on trends/progress in bathing water quality.
